

ARIZONA DOWNS

Race #1

2-6-5 #2 El Borrado 12-1 ML Has not been away from the agte well since last seen here on this track so the change of scenery should do him good. The start is key if he breaks he will be a factor in here.

Race #2

3-4-7 #3 Me 3-1 ML Took it right to the field last time and went wire to wire. Tactics should be the same with a lack of early speed signed on and 2 of 3 lifetime wins have come here so you know he like the track.

Race #3

4-3-2 #4 Zippy Groom 3-1 ML Got a feel for the track last time and wow did that race come back live with winner repeating next out and runner up coming back to win. Need only run same race to factor here.

Race #4

3-5-4 #3 Happy Happy Happy 5-1 ML won so impressively last time visually that we will take her right back off the class raise. She can stalk and finish a good combo here.

Race #5

4-6-3 #4 Red Nova 2-1 ML looked every bit a winner last time out at the top of the stretch but faltered late and that is a concern. What is not a worry is that the horse that beat her came back and won two races since then.

Race #6

3-7-5 #3 Stone Creek 10-1 ML could be the speed and here and with a clean start could have a say in the outcome right from the bell. Toss last after a troubled start and form looks much better.

Race #7

5-7-6 #5 Put Your Pants On 7-2 ML will need his big boy pants today against a good field, but there is room for optimism. At age 11 still showing a style here that suits race flow, stalk and pounce from just off the pace and he can pass horses in the lane which is key.

Race #8

1-3-5 #1 Not That I Recall 20-1 ML could be the bomb in the exotics at a big number. Drop can only help and numbers are improving, could be late on the scene if race comes back to a horse from off the pace.

Race #9

9-8-4 #9 EZ Queen 7-2 ML has just plain and simple faced better in all lifetime starts. No world beaters here so anything near last few will be good enough on the major decline on the class ladder.
