Race #1

8-1-4 #8 PCR Liar Liar 8-1 ML Has been based in Utah for the debut and those workouts and "timed trials" sure seem fast enough to factor here, watch tote board for clues.

Race #2

5-1-3 #5 Tim's Buddy 2-1 ML is not a favorite pick of mine today, but looks the lesser of evils here as this race screams upset but this one is at least heading in the right direction.

Race #3

2-5-4 #2 Drafty Breeze 4-1 ML makes her fifth start at the meet and age 7 hard to say if she can out two alike together back to back, but if she can she is the play here.

Race #4

2-4-7 #2 Subtle Ride 10-1 ML needed that last run and with that under her belt there may be a big step forward here and note the rider switch which means "GO TIME" for this barn all meet long.

Race #5

4-5-7 #4 Midnight in Maui 6-1 ML had a nightmare trip last time starting from the time the starting gate opened. Off the rail, clean start and may be looking at a winner if able to repeat the effort two starts back against a similar field, if he can rate here he wins.

Race #6

2-4-3 #2 Include Hoo 20-1 ML may not be the worst longshot to play today. Jock riding well, and thinking he is much better as a closing sprinter than a route horse so the cutback makes sense and watch for him late in the stretch if the race comes back to someone off the pace.

Race #7

4-1-6 #4 Semi Sweet 4-1 ML had that last start first over the track which was great considering it looks like a prep for this longer race. She is consistent and wants this far, expect even better today.

Race #8

8-1-6 #8 Palace Star 8-1 ML I have been chasing and going to give her one more chance. Drops to lowest level of career and it really is now or never time for me, thinking there is more talent there than what she has shown so far.
